The Coming Chauffeur

(WHO IS IT?)
By Wm. McSPARRON.

A motor car
He bought for Gar,
A "Twenty." Ford it was—
With top, wind shield;
For hill or field,
And a key to turn the "buzz."
It rides with ease;
Don't use much grease,
And the steering column's true;
Goes slow or fast,
As you use the gas;
And has a seat for two.

I asked the driver
What he'd do
In case he killed it dead,
While making a loop, wide
Sand wash through;
And this is what he said:

"Now I haint much on machinery,
Nor do I claim to be a talker;
But if he won't run by the scenery,
Why, blame my hide I'll walk 'er."

Tried to Play Trick On the Railroad

A man wishing to go from Richmond, Va. to Los Angeles without paying the regular fare tried to ship a crate of chickens on a live stock contract and get passage this way. He was caught at El Paso by the inspector and after having to pay his way all through, was forced to stick to his chicken contract. He then filed a complaint with the interstate commerce commission for discrimination against the chicken growers of the country. H. C. Hallmark, who went to El Paso early in the week, was on this case and says that it was the funniest thing he had ever run into while in the railroad business.

The station agent at Richmond, Va. supposed that it was all right when the man told him that he wanted to ship some livestock in a car and gave him a livestock contract. The man then went out and bought his chickens at a very low rate and put them in the car and had it sealed. He got away with the trick all right until he reached El Paso. The inspector there could not see how a crate of chickens could be turned into horses, mules or stock, as the rules read, so stopped the proceedings.

The man then filed a complaint to the interstate commerce commission and charged the railroad company with discriminating against the chicken growers of the country.

Renowned Arizonan Goes to His Reward

Tombstone was shocked to hear of the death of Col. Wm. Herring at Tucson yesterday, the distinguished and beloved Arizona pioneer passing away at 9 o'clock a. m. from apoplexy.

Col. Herring had been a resident of Arizona for 32 years, 15 years of which had been spent in Tombstone, the remainder of the time having been a resident of Tucson. His death marks the passing of one of Arizona's illustrious citizens, beloved by all who knew him.

A loyal Arizonan, public spirited, big hearted pioneer, eminent and able jurist, he indeed helped make history for the state he loved so well, and many will be the words of regret of his legion of friends throughout all parts of Arizona, at his passing—a worthy tribute to a great and good citizen.

Col. Herring was 79 years of age. He was the founder of Decoration Day, the father of Greater New York, and directed many advance movements for Arizona, with whose history he was so prominently identified.

Tombstone deeply mourns the passing of her early pioneer resident. Tombstone and Cochise county respectfully honored the distinguished jurist with official position, and received the benefit of his wise judgment and counsel, thus does Tombstone and Cochise county feel a deep personal loss in his demise, and joins the fraternal in extending heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family in their hour of trial.

He served as attorney general under Governor Irving, and later in the administration of Governor Murphy in 1890. He assisted in drafting Arizona's first state constitution more than 20 years ago. He was the first president of the Bar Association of Arizona and was president of the board of curators of the territorial library.

From 1888 to 1902 he served as chancellor of the board of regents of the University of Arizona, and it was in his honor that Herring Hall, one of the chief buildings on the campus, was named. In 1903, shortly after he resigned from the chancellorship, the University conferred upon him the honorary degree of LL. D.

The funeral of Col. Herring is to be held at Tucson Friday afternoon under the auspices of the B. P. O. E. of which order he was an honored member.

Applications for School Land Lease

The state land commission has just completed the forms of application for lease of Arizona school or University lands, and is now engaged in sending to every lesseeholder a copy of the application for lease, together with a blank permit, a printed copy of the land law, and an explanatory letter, with the request that the applications be made out as speedily as possible and forwarded to the state land commission, a duplicate copy being retained in the office of the board of supervisors in the county in which the lease is made.

The amount of rental charges for the school land is fixed by the county boards of supervisors and afterwards approved by the land commission. The rental of the land, that is, the amount fixed for the yearly use of the land must be forwarded to the land commission with the application. The permit is then issued, signed by the chairman and the secretary of the commission. The permits, however, only last until March 15, 1913, as it is thought that by that time some further land legislation will have passed. It, however, no additional land legislation is passed at that time it will be an easy matter to renew the permit.

New Arizona Law Causes Trouble

A change of headlights is causing the railroads some trouble. A law was passed that nothing smaller than 1500 candle power electric headlights should be used on all engines operated in Arizona. Many of the engines are burning acetylene headlights and these will have to be changed. The electric which have been installed previously are under the requirements.
